DETAILED ACTION

1. Claims 1-32 are pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 1, 3-12, 14-24, 26-32 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by NEC.

As per claims 1, 12, 23-24, NEC discloses a computer system, method and computer program product comprising: a processor; a memory coupled to the processor, the memory storing a pre-selected input characteristic; a stored password; instructions causing the processor to compare a first input entered by the user to the pre-selected input characteristic; instructions causing the processor to ignore an input during a power-on self test procedure unless the first input matches the pre-selected input characteristic (see page 2-18); instructions causing the processor to prompt a user of the computer system for a password when the first input matches the pre-selected input characteristic; instructions causing the processor to compare a password entered by the user to the stored password; and instructions causing the processor to process inputs during the power-on self test procedure subsequent to the first input when the password entered by the user matches the stored password (see page 2-29) and masking a processor from the inputs from an input/output device during power-on self test; and the reception of the input that corresponds to the predetermined data is performed by the processor (see page 2-18).

As per claims 3-4, 14-15, NEC discloses the data corresponds to an F2 key (see page 2-18).

As per claims 5, 16, 26, NEC discloses the processing of inputs other than the first input enables the user to access a system setup procedure (see page 2-18).

As per claims 6, 17, 27, NEC discloses the processing of inputs other than the first input enables the user to request boot functions (see page 2-25).

As per claims 7, 18, 28, NEC discloses the processing of inputs other than the first input enables the user to reboot the computer system (see page 2-9).

As per claims 8, 19, 29, NEC discloses the processing of inputs other than the first input enables the user to switch off a power supply of the computer system (see page 2-8).

Art Unit: 2137

As per claims 9, 20, 30, NEC discloses the processing of inputs other than the first input enables the user to access an Option Read Only Memory utility (see pages 2-18 through 2-33).

As per claims 10, 21, 31, NEC discloses the processing of inputs other than the first input enables the user to halt a power-on self-test function (see page 2-17 and entering the setup halts the POST).

As per claims 11, 22, 32, NEC discloses the processing of inputs other than the first input enables the user to omit a power-on self-test function (see rejection of claims 8, 19, 29 where it is clear that powering the system off will omit the POST).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claims 2, 13, 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over NEC as applied to claims 1, 12, 23 above, and further in view of Microsoft Computer Dictionary (Third Edition, 1997) (hereinafter Microsoft).

As per claims 2, 13, 25, NEC fails to disclose the memory further stores instructions causing the processor to process inputs other than the first input if the password entered by the user is entered within a pre-specified period of time after the user is prompted.

However, Microsoft teaches this method of a timeout (see page 469).

At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to a person of ordinary skill in the art to use Microsoft's method of a time out for the password of the NEC system.

Motivation to do so would have been to protect it against crackers (see Microsoft page 469).
